Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Meade left for Tombstone yesterday, where they will hereafter make their home. During their residence here they made man friends and sincere regret is expressed at their departure. Politically, the Citizen has always been opposed to Mr Meade and has repeatedly urged that he be replaced as United States Marshal, by a republican, but his ability and in tegrity were never questioned. True, at times he allowed party zeal to overstep good judgment, but he made a good officer-one of the best among Cleveland's appointees. When he vacated the marshal's office on the appointment of Mr. Paul, he left its affairs in such shape as to win the commendation of his successor. He left, says Marshal Paul, nothing upon out a special agent to see to the diswhich an explanation was needed; his tribution of these lands among the accounts were balanced, the several funds on hand returned to their respective departments, and without the misappropriation of a fund or a disallowed account to haunt him in the future. It is understood that he will engage in mining.-Citizen.
